THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By ROBERT PATTERSON

Neighbor Into Ally

Canada, land of the caribou and the quintuplets, is now more than a friendly neighbor. That vast country has become a first line of defense for us following a mutual defense agreement which plainly says the United States will never permit the conquest of its neighbor to the north. Not "politics" or "meddling," but geography made this step inevitable. Like it or not, geography has made Canada an integral part of this continent and in consequence an integral part of our defense problem. Canada's participation in the war clearly invites retaliation against her. In that event, could we afford to close our eyes and bury our heads to the existence of warfare at our own frontiers? Certainly not with most of our major industrial centers within a few minutes' flying time from the Canadian border. In framing his policy to check European aggression in the New World, President Monroe looked toward the Gulf of Mexico and to the countries lying beyond the Caribbean. Undreamt of were the conditions of a new century that would thrust on the United States the duty of erecting bastions of security on the North American continent as well as on the south.

Death of a Revolutionist

Revolutionists live dangerously and, as a rule, die violently. Leon Trotsky was no exception, tho violent death came to him the other day far from the scenes of his revolutionary triumph in Russia in 1917. His enforced exile from the land of the Bolsheviks 13 years ago was triumph in more ways than one for Dictator Stalin. It removed Stalin's most dangerous rival for power, and provided the Kremlin's master with an excellent scapegoat. When industries failed to meet quotas, when trains were wrecked, when cattle were wantonly slain by rebellious peasants, it was due to the sinister wiles of "Trotskyists." On the charge of being in league with the exiled Trotsky, hundreds of army officers and managers of industry were brought to trial and shoveled into the courtyards for firing squads to mow down. These were the notorious "purges" which in the spring of 1937 showed to the world to what barbarous depths a twentieth century despot could sink. Whether or not Trotsky was slain by an agent of Stalin's will probably never be known. Seeing what a convient scapegoat he made for the mishaps in Soviet economy, it is quite possible he was not.

Conquest By Air

Week after week passes, yet the threatened invasion of England does not materialize. When will it come? Perhaps never. In the view of Major De Seversky, noted American flier and aircraft designer, those armadas of British and German planes almost daily speeding across the Channel to unloose tons of bombs and aerial torpedoes on the enemy's soil are not the curtain raiser to the "main event." They themselves are the main event, the

Helene Casterson To Be Married Saturday Evening

Marriage rites for Miss Helene Lucille Casterson and Albert Theiss, Jr., of Oakland were performed by the Rev. William H. Schroeder before a large group of relatives and friends Saturday evening, at the Trinity Lutheran church in San Jose.

Music of violin and organ were played by Benjamin Stein and Miss Marilyn Casterson and Miss Erma Casterson, sisters of the bride.

The bride, who was conducted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white lace with a train and finger tip veil. She carried a white hymn book with gardenias, lilies o f the valley and ribbon streamers.

Another sister, Miss Lois Casterson was maid of honor and the Misses Evelyn Theiss, Jean Ernst, Esther Eckhoff and Henrietta O'Brien were bridesmaids. Their gowns were all white net.

Little Bernice Theiss was flower girl and Arnold Ernst, ringbearer. Robert Jochner attended his cousin as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Hamilton avenue and was m a d e t h e occasion for announcing the engagement of Miss Lois Casterson to Benjamin Stein.

After their honeymoon the newlyweds will reside in Sheffield village near Oakland in which city Mr. Theiss is associated with the Steinbeck-Theiss Meat company.

Frank Johnson Receives Awards At Valley Fair

Frank E. Johnson, member of Campbell chapter of Future Farmers of America, has junior champion Hampshire sow at the San Joaquin County Fair, it was a nnounced yesterday by agricultural instructor K. C. Dwelley.

Johnson along with having the champion sow won several other awards for which he will receive ribbons and prize money. He won the following awards: first senior sow which was also junior champion sow, second, young herd, third, aged sow, third, senior boar, third junior boar, third, junior sow pig, fourth, junior sow pig, and fifth, fat barrow.

Johnson, and Donald Warning and Richard Todd, also members of Campbell Future Farmers of America, will leave for Sacramento tomorrow, accompanied by Mr. Dwelley, where they will exhibit their stock at the State Fair, which begins Aug. 30.

Rev. and Mrs. John Brunswick are expected home this week from a vacation spent in southern California and Mexico. Sunday he will conduct union services of the Congregational and Methodist churches, over which Rev. J. H. Bennett has been in charge the past two Sundays.

THE RAMPARTS WE WATCH

Last Rehearsals Of One-Act Plays Are Held Today

Final rehearsals for the presentation of the three one-act plays by The Footlighters are being held tonight and all will be in readiness for the performances at the grammar school auditorium tomorrow (Friday) night at 8 o'clock.

Tickets may be purchased from children of the Sunday schools or may be secured at the door. There are no reserved seats except for the children who appear in "The Tom Thumbs Wedding," the first of the three plays.

Lighting and stage crew is composed of Ed Genasci, Herold Morton, Ethan Lanphear, and Archie Keesling. Tickets, programs and publicity were arranged by D. H. Cramer and staff. The committee for costumes was composed of Mrs. D. H. Cramer, Mrs. Milton Herold, Mrs. Archie Keesling and mothers of the children.

Executive Board Of P.-T. A. Meets

The executive board of the Campbell U n i o n Grammar School P.-T. A. held a meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. F. Grattan, the new president. Mrs. Grattan reported that 63 subscriptions were obtained this summer for the household magazine sponsored by the P.-T. A.

Plans for the year's program were discussed and suggestions that were turned in by the members at the last meeting in the spring were considered.

The next meeting will be a magazine luncheon in September at the home of Mrs. H. S. Hall. This meeting will be for anyone interested in subscribing to the Parent-teacher magazine.

Lucius Buck left Tuesday on his return to Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he is a member of the school faculty. He spent part of the summer in Los Angeles taking summer school courses.

Gladys Larson Selected For Reporting Job

Miss Gladys Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Larson, West Campbell avenue, has been selected to take the place of Don Martin, as reporter for the Mercury Herald. Her field is the personal item column, which Don released when he entered U. C. this year on a journalism scholarship.

Miss Larson is a June graduate of Campbell high where she was managing editor of the school paper. This year she will enroll at San Jose state college.

Death of Willa Fish Shock to Friends

The many f r i e n d s and acquaintances of Mrs. Willa Fish, wife of Ray Fish, were shocked to learn of her death which occurred at an early hour this morning, as many had not even known of her illness, and, of those who did, only very intimate friends knew her condition was serious.

The hour of services has not been set but they will be held from the Place Funeral home in Los Gatos, some time Saturday morning. The daily p a p e r s will carry the announcement later.

The bereaved husband and small sons, Ray and Harry are extended sincere sympathy by the entire community.

The Woman's Guild of the local Congregational church will begin its fall activities with a general meeting in the church parlors Thursday afternoon, Sept. 5, at 2 o'clock. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend, and each is asked to bring one or more handkerchiefs for the shower which is being given for Chinese welfare work. Group 2 will be hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shaves, Campbell avenue, are vacationing at R i c h a r d s o n Springs, Butte county.

Local Fire Truck And Crew In Los Gatos Parade

The volunteers of Campbell Fire department drove the big fire truck to Los Gatos and participated in the "Trail Days" parade Saturday night. Ed Genasci, fire chief, was in charge of the operations.

Adequate fire protection was given the Campbell area while part of the equipment was gone as shown by the alertness of seven of the department when they were called out later to extinguish a blaze in a car on Hamilton avenue.

In the parade the Campbell truck preceded the Los Gatos truck to show the superiority of the new over the old.

Ed Genasci stated: "By cooperating and entering in the parade we hoped to show the citizens of Los Gatos the comparison between old and new equipment and the advantages derived from good trucks. Campbell has one of the finest manned and equipped departments of its size in the state."

Genasci also reported that the commission is working on a "step-up" arrangement for the departments in this area to give all communities adequate protection w h e n equipment and men are called to a fire of major proportion demanding at least four trucks.

Theta Rho Girls Will Hold Regular Meeting Friday

The Theta Rho girls of Campbell will hold their next regular meeting Friday, August 30. The last meeting was held on Friday, August 16, at the home of Mrs. Louis Gray, the advisor. This meeting was turned into a gay occasion with a wienie roast, followed by the regular meeting and concluding with a dance.

Since the organization of the club in Campbell, the members have been going at top speed with the meetings and refreshments or a party of some sort afterwards. With proceeds of the big sports dance a donation was made to the Red Cross and two children sent to camp.

David Adams Receives License

David Adams, son of Mrs. Thelma McCoy Adams, Quito road, has received a student pilot's license, which permits him to make solo flights preparatory to receiving his cannot receive that until he passenger pilot's license. He is 18 years old.

David is the second Campbell boy to earn a pilot's license at the local airport, and is one of the youngest.

He is a senior at Campbell Union high school, 17 years of age, and intends to utilize his flying as a pilot of a crop-dusting plane.

Rev. J. H. Bennett Speaker at Local Club Meeting Tues.

The Kiwanis club was favored with a charming vocal duet Tuesday, given unrehearsed by the Misses Rhoda and Doris Funk, nieces of C. P. Klassen who returned with him after his visit to Texas earlier in the summer. Their accompanist was Miss Elaine Jeffers.

Rev. J. H. Bennett was the speaker who summarized lectures he heard at Mills college on problems of and conditions in the far east. As always he passed on much valuable knowledge.

Next week Ambrose Nichols, principal of the San Jose Techical high school will talk on phases and types of conscription.

Claire Lobrovich Joins Alameda Soft Ball Team

Miss Claire Lobrovich, a student at Campbell Union high school, who has been playing with the Stokes Willys-Graham dealers girl's soft ball team, has been chosen to play with the Alameda women's team.

The team leaves tonight from Oakland for t h r e e games with teams in Canada, thence to Detroit and a possible game in Chicago.

Claire, who was offered a place on the women's world championship team last year, plays center field, and is a consistent home run batter.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Lobrovich.

Miss Ruth James Honored at Party

Mrs. Archie Keesling and daughter Margaret, entertained a group of friends at their Rincon avenue home in Campbell Monday afternoon, in honor of Miss Ruth James. Miss James will be married to William Robertson Saturday afternoon.

The guests, who presented Miss James with a smart traveling bag, were Mrs. Harry James, Mrs. Pat Surrett, Mrs. Milton Robertson, Charlotte Robertson, Mrs. Arthur Wellington, Jeanette Wellington, Mrs. George Calkins, Betty Mae Calkins, Mrs. T. G. Burch, Mrs. George Green, Mrs. Fannie Norin, Mrs. W a n d a McCormack, Miss Gertrude Witherspoon and the hostesses.

Mathis Given House Warming

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mathis were given a surprise housewarming Saturday in their new home on Milton avenue.

Friends who participated in the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Axel Granstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown, Mrs. Francis Petersen, Miss Viola Boyd, Miss Esther Sorensen, Gus Roe and A. M. Ross.

WHY IS IT?

There are some things we've often wondered about. For instance, why is it that:

Taxi drivers never seem to have a cent in their pockets to make change for your fare when you hand them a small bill;

Postal clerks sling your package with a bang onto a table four feet away when they could easily walk to it in a second or two;

The downtown parking space is always filled up when you arrive, and no one ever backs out when you're cruising about for parking room;

Butter, in a fragrant bag of popcorn, never seeps down more than a fraction of an inch from the top;

Movie trailers announcing a coming picture never say. "It's pretty good. We think you'll like it," instead of asserting it's "supercolossal," "gigantic," "heart-gripping," "supernal";

Dandelions on a lawn never get discouraged no matter how many times you pluck off their heads and tear up their roots;

A small can of paint—when you decide to do a bit of retouching on a table or chair—apparently has lids and lips designed to spill the maximum amount on the floor;

Visiting relatives think it a happy surprise to swoop in the front door unannounced when your best friends wouldn't dream of doing so;

And lastly, a note of warning: We don't think printing this is going to change things one bit!

STATE FAIR

There are two ways to see California. One of them is to travel in it. The other is to visit the State Fair. Every citizen owes it to himself to do both and now is a good time to do it. The curtain rings up on the big 11-day show at Sacramento on August 30.

There are, of course, state fairs and state fairs. The evidence is on the books that California's tops 'em all in popularity. There's a reason.

With its myriad displays, its stunning wealth of products, the Fair reflects the California we all know and love. It is a mirror of vast orchards sweeping down the great central valley under clouds of pink and white blossoms in spring; of mighty stands of pine, fir and sky-reaching redwoods flanking the Sierras and Coast range; of smooth, fertile acres in the Imperial where green corn and gragrant melon vines flourish magically under blazing shafts of sunlight; of Alpine meadows in the eastern Sierra uplands where rich rangelands sweep away to the far horizon; of green hill country north of the Golden Gate where purple grapes wax fat on the sheltered slopes of inland valleys.

All the bounty of this teeming earth is on view when California decks herself out in gay regalia this week. But unseen will be the toil that made the earth give forth this bounty, the vision that made desert lands bloom and the bold spirit that pioneered new paths. Yet all of this is a real part of the story you'll find unfolded at Sacramento.

So we say—get acquainted with California. See the State Fair. You owe it to yourself to find out how varied, how rich, how great in resources California really is. Now is your chance!

STILL GOING STRONG!

Will President Roosevelt's candidacy for a third term lead to a fourth term? And a fifth? Only time can tell. Maybe there's a hint in this Washington despatch which went askew typographically: "Secretary of Agriculture Wallace submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today, to be accepted at the President's discretion as the 2940 campaign opens." As we figure it, that puts the Squire from Hyde Park in the running for a 253rd term!

PLAY SAFE—DRIVE SAFELY!

Do you want to have a first-rate Labor Day holiday?

Do you want to drive to the seashore where the blue Pacific curls along the beach sands in a bubbling white arc, visit the mountains for a last try at whipping cool streams for trout, or enjoy a late summer picnic in a wooded grove where palms or pines make a feathered canopy of green?

There's one certain way of making it a happier week-end vacation. And that is, when you shift the family car into reverse, pilot it carefully out of the garage to the sidewalk curb and nose it toward mountain, sea, or valley, that you resolve to yourself—simply, firmly and silently—to do an A No. 1 job of safe and sane driving.

Of course, you'll meet fellow drivers along the road who would try the patience of a saint — dopey motorists straddling the white line, lovesick pilots mooning al ong at 15 miles an hour, ants-in-the-pants wheelmen who go berserk when they can't whip the speedometer up to 60 and cut in anywhere in devil-may-care fashion. Cuss 'em if you like, but don't copy 'em!

Play safe. Drive safely!

CALIFORNIA'S BIRTHDAY

Ninety years have passed since, on a fine 9th of September, the roughest, lustiest baby of 'em all was born into the Union of States—an infant babling in a Mex-Indian jargon, clutching a six gun in one fist and yellow nuggets in the other. That was but yesterday, as nations reckon time—and it's with astonishment and some natural envy that dozens of older commonwealths now look up at the stripling who passed them in wealth, population and importance. For California has grown in all ways and lost in none.

The gold that drew men 90 years ago is produced as lavishly as ever in the Gold Rush days. Oil and hydro-electric power have overcome the shortage of coal, so that manufacturing matches strides with farming, mining and commerce. Sixth among the states in population, California is behind only New York and Pennsylvania in total income—which means that the rate of production of natural wealth has even exceeded a rate of population increase that has doubled the state's population in two decades.

The California past is pleasant to look back upon. No ravages of war have touched her soil. Save for the San Francisco disaster of 1906, no misfortune of catastrophic proportions has visited the Golden State. Her destiny, by natural resources and geographical position, is to become the center of the world's greatest civilization, when peace finally spreads over the vast areas of the Pacific. And her seven million sons and daughters have special reasons in this year, when life is a thing of dread and poverty in so much of the universe, to express a most hearty "Happy birthday, California!" on the 90th anniversary of Admission Day.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

As every farmer knows, American export markets, in days gone by, were a vital factor in agricultural economy.

California sold its farm products in the four corners of the world. California dried fruits found a ready market in Germany. California oranges were on sale in Liverpool, London and Manchester. California rice even traveled to the Orient.

California labels were known in every port and every major market in the civilized world.

Facing facts fearlessly, that market for California produce has all but evaporated. Except, perhaps, for the Americas export trade, due to force of circumstances, is gone beyond recall, at least for several years.

When Europe gets through with war and bloodshed, there may, possibly, be some demand for American goods, for Europe, most certainly, will be faced with the worst food shortage in its history. But unless the United States lends it the gold to buy American produce, or unless American farmers are willing to barter, Europe will be a consumer virtually bereft of purchasing power.

Why not face facts?

American agriculture, during the years just ahead, must look to America for its markets!

In light of those facts—and they are facts—California farmers would do well to give serious thought to a recent appraisal of the situation made by Milo Perkins, president of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation.

Mr. Perkins is quoted by W. B. Parker, director of the State Department of Agriculture, as saying, in effect:

That under-consumption in the United States is a real challenge because the greatest untapped market that ever existed looms before our farmers and business men in the form of under-privileged people in our own country, whose present cash incomes are so low that they can't buy our products.

That 16 or 17 million persons are in families that earn $500 a year or less. And that such a family spends only 38 per cent of its income for food—buys only 38 per cent as much fruit as those in the $100-a-month income class, and only 10 per cent as much as those earning $250 a month.

That in the case of meats families in the $500-a-year income group buy only one half as much as those in the $100-a-month income group.

That in the case of vegetables, they buy only 46 per cent as much as the $100-a-month grouping, and in dairy products, only 42 per cent as much.

That approximately 20 million persons receiving public assistance spend only $1 a week per capita for food, or 5 cents a meal.

Incidentally, Mr. Perkins states that since the Food Stamp plan was inaugurated, the 5-cent-a-meal expenditure has increased to 7½ cents, and when a man gets off relief and obtains a job, even

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Is California prepared for any war-time emergency? If not, what must be done to strengthen the state's defense and make it impregnable?

What effect on industry will present preparedness plans have? What will be the effect on relief and unemployment?

And what legislative enactments are needed to rid California of "fifth columnists," to guard against sabotage and to protect the interests of men who may be called to the colors?

Tackling those complicated problems and many others—working quietly, but expertly—is a board of distinguished Californians, known as the Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment. It is hand-picked by the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, which, in turn, was charged by the legislature with the twin-duty of putting men to work—and putting them to work in the defense of America!

The members of the defense board include such men as John C. Austin of Los Angeles, architect and past president of the Southern California Economic Council; Colonel E. W. Mason of San Francisco, vice president and general manager of the Western Pacific railroad; Dr. Robert A. Millikan of San Marino, president of the California Institute of Technology; Donald Douglas of Santa Monica, president of Douglas

Mystery-Drama At Curran Theater Starting Sept. 2

An event of the greatest interest to local theater-goers marks the coming engagement of the distinguished English star, Flora Robson, in the thrilling murder-mystery drama success, "Ladies in Retirement," which comes to the Curran theater, San Francisco, for two weeks beginning on Monday evening, Sept. 2.

"Ladies in Retirement" comes here after its long engagement at the Henry Miller's theater in New York.

Broadway had been waiting for a really satisfying murder-thriller for some seasons when Gilbert Miller produced "Ladies in Retirement" at the Henry Miller's theater last season. This spine-chiller from the able typewriters of two prominent English dramatists, Edward Percy and Reginald Denham, exactly filled the bill and New York theater-goers have been enjoying a season of hair-raising thrills a s well as some of the finest acting they have seen for many years. Flora Robson ,favorite among the younger English character actresses, accepted Mr. Miller's invitation to star in the colorful role of Ellen Creed. Miss Robson, appearing for the first time upon the American stage, won an immediate and enthusiastic success; a success even greater than her several London triumphs. The supporting cast has been described by the critics as flawless, and "Ladies in Retirement" continued its successful run until the start of its present nation-wide tour.

The entire original New York cast and production will be seen when "Ladies in Retirement" comes to the Curran.

Joan Halamicek Wins Contest

Congratulations are being extended Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Halamicek since the announcement last week that their granddaughter, Miss Joan Halamicek had been awarded a $100 first prize as the best instrumentalist in the California commission's second annual Young Artists' contest.

Joan and a sister, Jeanne, who is a student of Amelita Galli-Curci in Hollywood, spent some time in Campbell with their grandparents, and while quite young girls gave a concert here.

Miss Joan began her violin lessons as a pupil of her grandfather. Her father and mother are both musicians and most of her brothers and sisters are musical.

Gilroy Roundup Aug. 31, Sept. 1-2

Cowboys will not "bite the dust" at the eleventh annual Gilroy roundup and Gymkhana on August 31, Sept 1 and 2, despite the fact that cowboys will doubtless be sent sprawling from the backs of the vicious broncs and bulls during the exciting three day celebration.

Instead of "chewing gravel," the cowboys will fall upon a bermuda grass bed. So far as is known Gilroy has the only planted turf arena in the rodeo business.

Another innovation is that the Saturday, Aug. 31 rodeo will be a night affair.

1940 Prune Pool To Close Saturday

California Prune and Apricot Growers association has announced that the first pool for 1940 crop prunes will close at midnight Saturday.

Any growers interested in getting their prunes in this pool must sign the contracts before that time. Anyone joining the association after that time will have his fruit placed in a second or subsequent pool.

It was stated with the announcement that "It may not be amiss to call attention of non-member growers to the fact that under the contemplated prorate program many problems will arise which as far as the association is concerned will be handled for the membership, because under the prorate law the cooperative association is treated as one grower."

at very modest wages, he spends 12 cents a meal for food.

What does that array of facts mean?

To this writer, it means that this country must learn to rely on itself first. With so many leading authorities in agreement that America cannot depend upon foreign trade as a means of maintaining its economy, at least for some years to come, it becomes increasingly apparent that we must look primarily to the stabilization of our American markets for our American producers. It means that we must restore American prosperity by rebuilding our own markets first for our own people, so as to be prepared for still further dislocation of our foreign trade. It means that American business must not be condemned without just cause, whether such business be big or little, and that government instead of trying to crucify and stultify business and industry should devote its energies to encouraging private enterprise.

Perhaps we're old fashioned, but we believe the way to salvation is right here in the United States of America. As time goes on, whether we are to help ourselves or help the world at large, we can best do the job by building a thoroughly sound internal strength. If we can unite to make our own country strong and re-establish unity of purpose on the part of all groups to that end, we shall then be in much better position to expand and develop foreign commerce, when it again becomes possible to do so.

Advertising IS Good News

Specially now, when the world is so full of strife, misery and anxiety, it's good to be able to get the pleasant news that comes in the ads.

About a light-hearted summer turban . . . sportswear coolly stolen from the men . . . a refreshing hot weather beverage . . .

A pipe that promises a smoke-treat . . . a light straw hat for the steaming brow . . .

The ads are reminders that life can't all be woe . . . reminders to be as normal and comfortable as possible . . . reminders to which you can sensibly respond. For the ads lead you to sound values.

And as quickly as possible, that board, seeking a close-knit defense line, is selecting liaison committees throughout the state. In every county, there will be a committee of experts, each a practical man, with a practical knowledge of his job, to organize his group or industry — to build a home defense against blitzkriegs. The California power industry, for example, has perfected a plane-detection system which will spot any enemy bomber long before it enters California—and follow its every movement. There are other details not to be divulged, but California's defense is building!

authentic big push. This is a new type of battle in history and can more properly be called an air siege. If the Nazi squadrons can destroy industries and communications by air siege, and enforce an aerial blockade against shipping, then their battle will have been won without the necessity of landing a single soldier on British soil. Conquest without occupation? Incredible as it may seem, the second World War may bring it to pass.

They Know Their Planes

It was cheering news for California to hear William Knudsen, National Defense commission chairman, declare that the aircraft industry is cooperating 100 per cent with the nation's defense program with its members unanimously going about the job of "building planes first and talking about profits afterwards." California, maker of fully 60 per cent of the nation's military planes, has further good assurances that the exacting and complicated job of plane building is in able, experienced hands. In one typical Southern California concern the 10 top executives have among them, more than one and a half million hours of aircraft experience, averaging more than 17 years per man. They have the ability. They are showing the cooperation. Only those ingredients can speed the national defense effort to early completion.

Ships For the West

Even the ear-shattering rattle of the riveter can make sweet music. Reliable forecasts hint that within the next two months, $300 million worth of shipbuilding contracts will be awarded to California shipyards, which means new jobs for thousands of structural steel workers alone. Now that the east coast shipyards are working at full capacity, the overly neglected west coast is winning its place in the sun.

Cook ELECTRICALLY

Why be moored to a hot kitchen this summer by an old-fashioned stove? You'll escape it if you will cook electrically, as thousands of other California housewives are doing. Electric cooking is automatic. You put food into the electric oven. You set time and temperature controls. You have nothing more to do. An electric range does ONE job capably—it cooks food—not the cook.

You can afford this new luxury of California living. It is not expensive. Electric Range prices have never been lower—probably less than you paid for your present stove. Electricity for cooking is cheap in California—very little more perhaps than your present fuel costs. Will you look into electric cooking for your home NOW? You really should do it.
